Introduction

How can we view unexpected obstacles as opportunities to live as witnesses for Jesus?

I. Our _____ for Jesus can have a tremendous impact upon people around us (vv12-14).

II. Our _____ should be for Christ to be proclaimed (vv15-18).

Read Philippians 1:12-18a.

Paul had been imprisoned for preaching the gospel of Jesus. Put yourself in his shoes. How might you feel as someone who had been sidelined and unjustly incarcerated?

When have you encountered unexpected circumstances that resulted in new opportunities?

Can you think of a time when God turned tragedy into something good in your life?

Has someone’s example in the midst of suffering ever inspired you to live differently?

Why do you think one person’s boldness for Christ has the power to inspire others to live boldly for Jesus?

In vv15-18, how is Paul setting his own interests aside and demonstrating an attitude of “it’s not about me?”

How is Paul’s example a reflection of the cross of Christ? How does Paul point us to Jesus?

What unexpected obstacle are you currently facing that God wants you to see as an opportunity to live as a witness for Jesus?

What “open doors” for the gospel is God giving you?
